

Julia Busch Hansen BA (Hons), PGCE, Cert. Ed. Psy., AFBPS, Chartered Educational Psychologist

My Aim

My aim is to help children and parents to achieve their full potential. To do so, I offer a caring, problem solving service for parents, children and teachers. I believe strongly that the child, the parents and the teachers are key partners in the process of education. I achieve my aim through the ideas, beliefs and commitment of this partnership.

I help:

Children that are experiencing difficulties at school, including:

- ✦ Gifted children.
- ✦ Children showing slow general progress in class.
- ✦ Those experiencing difficulties with specific skills like reading, writing or arithmetic.
- ✦ Children with special educational needs, such as those with sensory or physical impairment.
- ✦ Those that are in emotional or behavioural trouble.

Adults that are stressed and anxious because of their child's difficulties at school or at home.

Teachers that need support in identifying and carrying out strategies that can lead to real improvement in a child's performance and enjoyment of school.

My Services

I offer a range of services aimed at achieving this aim. Specific services include:

- ✦ Remedial strategies for emotional and behavioural difficulties.
- ✦ Psychological assessment (including intelligence testing and a range of assessment techniques).
- ✦ Developmental literacy advice.
- ✦ Brief Solution Therapy with family and/or teacher groups.
- ✦ Developing & promoting self-esteem.
- ✦ Behavioural management advice for school and home.
- ✦ Monitoring & follow-up for your child.

The Fees

My professional psychological services aim to provide the highest level of quality. The fees are charged at £108 per hour due on date of assessment.

An assessment, for example, may take seven hours to conduct, analyse and document, making it cost £760 in total. Plus relevant travel costs of between £35 - £55.
